Personal Internet Filter Help Getting Started Use All Web sites Personal Internet Filter (PIF) is a program that logs any message it sees crossing your computer's screen, and presents the web sites that caused the messages. This makes it easy to block a web site that sends you unwanted e-mails or messages. The program even blocks other unwanted messages that come from web sites you visit! Personal Internet Filter program contains an extremely small footprint (under 20KB compressed) that works with all known editions of Windows XP. Personal Internet Filter (PIF) is an application that uses its own scanning engine (self-automated) to detect a broad spectrum of hazards. As a result, the scan process should be extremely fast in your system (under 2 seconds!). All hazards are reported with detailed information. Once installed, PIF will re-crawl your system every night. Personal Internet Filter (PIF) is classified as a Software and comes in just one language - English! PIF can be classified as a Security application. At this time, no PIF for different languages is available. We are sorry that we can not provide it for you. It can be classified as a 'Network' utility. Personal Internet Filter (PIF) Download PIF Our System Requirements Windows 2000, XP, Vista, Windows7, Windows8, Windows10 CPU : Pentium III, P4, Celeron, Atom or AMD RAM : 256MB or more is recommended for best experience. It works by stopping pop-up windows and ads that annoy you and slow down your Internet use. It also helps prevent computer viruses and spyware. Another feature of a pop-up blocker is it can help prevent you from visiting unwanted Web sites when you visit Web sites that use pop-up windows. Pop-up windows are little windows that appear as soon as you visit a Web page. They can offer you advertising for a variety of products. Because they are annoying and can slow down your browsing, pop-up blockers help protect your computer and Internet Explorer. Many pop-up blockers also keep you from visiting unwanted Web sites. A personal pop-up blocker can help protect you from lots of annoying ads on Web sites. If you have a personal pop-up blocker, it can help keep you from visiting illegal Web sites where you are likely to find annoying ads. You can tell if you have a personal pop-up blocker installed on your computer by looking for a small window on your taskbar. To start a personal pop-up blocker, go to Start, Run and type in msconfig. Choose "Startup and Maintenance" and click OK. In the Startup and Maintenance window, find the service named Microsoft® Windows® Messenger (or Windows Messenger) and click "Disable". Now close the Startup and Maintenance window. If you prefer to use a built-in pop-up blocker instead, open Internet Explorer, click Tools and click Internet Options. Click the Security tab and click the button marked "Custom Level". Below the "Custom Level" menu, click "Popup Blocker". Now click OK to save the changes. An image viewer is an easy way to preview and print image files from the Internet, without having to open them with the image editor. Personal Internet Filter works with JPEG, GIF, TIFF and other common image formats. Personal
